

TEACHERS IN THE MOVEMENT

Summer Teachers Institute 2019
June 23-28, 2019

The Teachers in the Movement Project (TIM) at the University of Virginia (UVA) will convene a Summer Teachers Institute from June 23-28, 2019. This professional development opportunity will provide background knowledge on the relationship between the Civil Rights Movement and education through readings, lectures, teacher panels, group discussions, and a field trip. The institute will also offer instruction in oral history methods and primary source research using UVA's Small Special Collections. The workshop will also address the challenges of teaching "difficult history."

Upon completion teachers will possess a deeper understanding of the relationship between civil rights struggles and education and will be better equipped to engage their own students in oral history methods and primary source research. Each teacher will also contribute either a blog post and/or lesson plan that will be featured on the TIM website. We encourage upper elementary school teachers and secondary English and social studies teachers to apply for this opportunity. All participants will receive daily meals, professional development credit, a stipend, and the chance to collaborate with other teachers and scholars.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Danielle Wingfield-Smith via email (dcw7sz@virginia.edu) or by phone at 757-602-0269. Applications are due by May 24, 2019. All applicants will be notified by June 1, 2019. To apply for the institute, please visit teachersinthemovement.com or access the application here <https://goo.gl/forms/EbguFufbH758pgl13>.
